General description of the market or economic reality	NMX Index Guideline
Geographical boundaries of the market or economic reality	NMX Index Guideline
Circumstances in which we would lack sufficient input data to determine the benchmark according to the methodology	The benchmarks are based on the official stock closing prices from eligible stock exchanges as outlined in the Index Guideline. The benchmarks rely on the continued availability of these data for the determination of the benchmarks. In the case of a market or data source disruption, the administrator will use the last official closing price as published by the relevant exchange.
